OHIO NOMINATIONS. EWING AND RICE THE CHOSEN

The Democratic Convention at Columbus, Ohio, Makes its Nominations on the Second Ballot.

COLUMBUS, O., June 5.—Thomas Ewing was nominated for Governor of Ohio by the Democratic Convention today on the second ballot, and General Rice for Lieutenant Governor.

Congress. WASHINGTON, June 4.—SENATE.— Senator Bayard from the Judiciary Committee, reported with amendment the Senate bill repealing sections 820 and 821 revised statutes, "which prescribe jurors' test oath, 'etc., and said he would probably ask leave to call it up to-morrow for consideration. Ordered to be printed and placed on the calendar. The Senate took up the bill to amend the act in regard to Judicial Districts in Texas.

The bill amending the act creating the Northern Judicial District of Texas was considered and passed.

Adjourned. House.—The Senate amendments to the House grasshopper bill extending time of a syment by pre-emptors was agreed to, and the bill now awaits the President's signature. Many bills have been introduced on leave and referred.
Mr. Buckner, Chairman Committee on Banking and Currency, reported a resolution directing investigation into the affairs of the Ocean National Bank of New York, and German National Bank of Chicago, and especially into the management of the assets of these banks by their respective receivers. The bank investigation resolution, after a short discussion as to the proof which Mr. Whitthorne, of Tennessee, expressed a desire that the whole national banking system be investigated and its expression as to the propriety of the property of the propriety of the property of th gated and its corruption exposed, was adopted.

Mr. Atkins, of Tennessee, chairman of the Appropriation Committee, re-ported back the joint resolution repealing sundry clauses in the sundry civil bill, approved March 3d, with the Senate amendments; then Mr. Hunton, of Virginia, offered an amendment increasing the appropriation for the family of the late representative Schlei-cher, of Texas, to $10,000. Agreed to. The Senate amendment was then con-

Mr. Sprin, er (Ill.), as a question of privilege, offered a preamble and resolution reciting the proceedings of the Committee on Expenditures in the State Department in the last Congress, in connection with the charges against George F. Seward, Minister to China, and referring the report of that committee, the articles of impeachment prepared by it and the testimony taken the case to the Judiciary Committee, with instructions to consider the same and take other testimony if necessary, and report to the House at the next session. Agreed to. Adjourned.

The Bill Relating to the Drawing of Jurors.

WASHINGTON, June 4.-Following is substance of the bill reported from the Senate Judiciary Committee to-day as a substitute for Senator Bayand's bill repealing the jurors' test-oath section of the Revised Statutes. It will form part of the legislative judicial appropriation bill agreed upon by the Democratic caucus. Sections 801, 820 and 21, and the last clause of section 800 of the Revised Statutes are repealed. All grand and petit jurors in the United States courts shall be publicly drawn from a box containing the names of not less than three hundred persons possessing the qualifications prescribed section 800, Revised Statutes, which names shall be placed therein by the Clerk of the Court, and a Commission-er to be appointed by the Judge there-Commissioner shall reside in the District in whi h the Cour is held, shall be of good standing, and a well known member of the principal political party opposing that to which the Clerk belongs. The Clerk and this Commissioner shall each place one name in said box alternately until the whole number required shall be placed therein: but nothing contained herein shall be construed to prevent any Judge in a district in which such is now the practice from ordering the names of urors to be drawn from boxes use t by the State authorities in selecting jurors in the highest courts of the State. All laws in conflict herewith are repealed.

The Famine in Cashmere SIMLA, June 4.—Official reports from Cashmere say it is impossible to exaggerate the distress the famine is causing there. The Maharajah of this province, at the urgent request of the Viceroy of India, is proceeding to Serinagur, the capital city of Cashmere, to superintend the organization of relief. Three hundred and fifty thousand tons of grain are now in transitu to the vallev of Cashmere.

The Projector of the Woodruff Expedition Dead. NEW YORK, June 4 .- James

Woodruff, the projector of the Woodruff scientific expedition, died this morning of brain disease.

No Such Request.

HAMBURG, June 4.-The Rosenhalle denies that Bismarck has asked the cities of Hamburg and Bremen te sur-render their privileges as free ports.

The Po on the Rampage. ROME, June 4.- The river Po has made a breach in its embankment be-tween the village of Sermide and the market town of Revero. The damage is very serious.

Commencement at Thomasville.

Correspondence of the News. THOMASVILLE, June 3d .- The commencement exercises of the Thomas-ville Female College began to-day. Notwithstanding the unpropitious state of the weather, there is a large number of friends and visitors in attendance.

The Anniversary Sermon was preached to-night by Rev. T. H. Pritchard, D. D., of Raleigh, to a full house. The text was Ps. 12:6. Subject, "The Bible, the inspired word of God." Its Divine authenticity manifest in its trials, its history, its purity and power. discourse abounded in rich thought; was well delivered and listened to with profound attention throughout. Dr. Pritchard'is a preacher of rare abil ity and is deservedly held in high esteem by all.

The Annual Literary Address is to be delivered to-morrow by Rev. Dr. A. B. Brown, of Virginia, when the commencement exercises proper take place. Thomasville is a neat little town. Its clean and healthy surroundings eminently fit it is as a location for a school of learning. The College is beautifully located, but a short distance from the depot. Its ample grounds are well laid out and kept in the best of order, indicating the intelligence and good taste of its enterprising proprietors.

The college, under the judicious management of Professor W. H. Reinfelder. hart, is undoubtedly one of the best, if not the best of its kind in the State. The examinations just closed indicate thoroughness and efficiency.

No distinction is given without first being ear ned by the pupil. Professor Reinhart, himself a graduate of the Uni-versity of Virginia and reputed as one of the best educators of the land, is aided by an able corps of teachers of the highest standard, and they seem to be uni-ted and earnest in their work.

A PATRON. A COMICAL SCENE.

A Chance for Motion in the Republican Outrage Mill.

Washington Capital. Let any one believing in popular gov-ernment, or the superiority of Con-gressmen turned out from the Statesman factory of universal suffrage, look at the law that prevails in sight of the national capital. Eighty years ago fish-eries a hundred miles above tide-water navigation were more prolific of food for the people at large than the rive: s now right at the salt water. The reason is that the spirit of our laws ignores the fact that it is the savage who destroys and the civilized man who preserves. In Germany, England or France there are more fish now than when those countries were under the primitive savage races. The "close seasons" are wisely decreed, and, by fostering the wisely decreed, and, by fostering the products of the water, increase them a hundred fold. What is the state of affairs here? Why, a shad or herring can scarcely get within sight of the national capital, to which point Providence wisely sends him to evolve brain for the M. C.

for the M. C.

Owing to this the seine brought in only a small haul; but in the crowd were three sturgeons, one of which seemed tweive feet long, as he charged through the schools of small fry and defied the attacks of three stalwart black tishermen who waded in to black fishermen who waded in to cap-ture him. Two struck at him with clubs, while the third endeavored to put a noose around him. The first blow of the club missed the fish and struck the other fisher, which so exasperated the recipient that he at once became a fisher of men, and went for his unin-tentional assailant. But darkies, even under wise Republican rule, are generous, and prefer nature's weapons to all civilized ones, except the razor. They other. Then there was a splashing and floundering, while the attendant hun-dred black seine-haulers let go the net and att inded to the fight. Down went one and then the other in the water, and the fishers and the crowd set up a wild, unearthly yell, like a Bamboula in Paul and Virginia. In the meantime the sturgeon, left alone with one adversary, faced his antagonist boldly, and, despite the disadvantages of being half way out of his native element, seemed to be getting the advantage.

The darkey, finding that he couldn't fight the sturgeon standing, at once went in like a wrestler and got an under hold; but the sturgeon turned him in a twinkling, and while the darkey was looking for an ear to bite, the fish had well nigh mastered him. "Run for a constable," cried the captain of the fishery, alarmed at the general riot which threatened to spoil that haul; for while the one hundred negroes were attending to the fight the herrings all started back to the river, while a gigantic eel was wrestling with a small boy in the sand, and an enormous snapper turtle had just whipped two other boys and regaine i his native element. had secured some white auxiliaries and troops. They attached a top of the colored troops, and then tied the captain's mules to the other end and started up the bank. The result was that they hauled out something covered with mud and scales, and were just begin-ning to dispatch it with clubs, when discovered that it was the negro and not the sturgeon. At this there was another wild Bamboula chorus, and the negroes up on the bank began praying and singing, to the effect that the judgment day had come, and that the sinners were all about to be called to account for fishing on Sunday. In the meantime the sturgeon, flushed with victory, charged through the crowd and started to Chesapeake Bay, and, for fear of a general revolution the Corcoran backed out and started home. On the way up town we heard that Jim Blaine, Conkling and Zack Chandler were weaving this simple incident into a Southern outrage; and hence think it proper to lay before the public the proper and true account.

Troops for Atlanta.

Atlanta Constitution. The Thirteenth infantry will be here by the 10th of June to spend the sum-mer. Captain Ellis, who has been in the city some days making arrangements for the command, will report in favor of locating the camp on a pretty rolling lot just in the rear of the residence of Mr. H. I. Kimball. It is in every way suited for the convenience and comfort of the troops.

The excellent band of the Thirteenth will come with the regiment. It played frequently in Atlanta when here last fall, and is pleasantly remembered. The officers of the command were gentlemen, who were highly esteemed here. Their return will be gratifying to their friends in Atlanta. In addition to the Thirteenth infantry we are to have, in a few days, three more companies of the Fifth artillery, which will give us seven companies of that command with those we now have. The Fifth artillery has not been in Atlanta long, but already it has be-come almost as popular here as it was in Charleston, where the people deeply regretted its department. We will have this summer two regiments and two tine bands. We learn that there is a plan on foot to have one of the military bands play at Ponce de Leon every af-This would be gratifying to the public generally. CURRENT ITEMS.

The Americus (Ga.) Republican has rather a curiosity in the way of a pic-ture that was unearthed on the plantation of Mr. D. E. Greene, of Lee county, by a negro man who was digging in a field. He struck, with his pick, some arrow heads and three pictures, one an Indian chief, one a squaw and the other a girl. They were on thin strips of something resembling glass, and looked very much like the negative now used by artists in making photo-graphs, but the plates are not glass. The two larger pictures were broken, the o her can be inspected by any one capable of throwing light on their origin, the length of time they have been buried and other matters of interest concerning them. The old frigate Constitution, now lying at Pier 1 of Martin's docks, Brooklyn, unloading exhibits returned from the Paris Exhibition, had her kneel laid in 1794, and launched three years later. She bombarded Tripoli in 1804, and in 1812 she captured the Guerrierre, Wasp and other vessels. It is said by naval officers that not a particle of the original wood is now in the old frigate, except the mizzentopsail bitts. Some meddler may hint that the old hull, masts, rigging, etc., might be collected and put together, and ask what vessel that would be; but there is such a thing as being too curious. Danbury, Conn., has a hoop-rolling prodigy, Tommy Moran, by name. Last Saturday he rolled fifteen hoops to Bethel, two miles and back. After ward he kept fifty hoops in motion at

AN OLD TRAGEDY. AN EVENT RECALLED BY THE POCASSET MURER.

A Wild Tale of Many Years Ago ... A Singular Comcidence---Biblical History Almost Repeated.

Seaford (Del.)special cor. of Every Evening. An old man nearly seventy years of age occasionally shuffles nervously into this, one of the most beautiful places in Sussex county, from his home between here and Concord, on the line of the Wilmington and Delaware railroad. A few days, ago while here, he was listening to an account of the Pocasset tragedy, which was being read to a group o men in 'Squire Allen's office. The story seemed to fascinate him, although he did not wait for the end of it, but went away apparently overcome with emotion. This was no wonder, for as I afterward heard he had been the principal actor in a tragedy as horrible as the crime of the New England Adventist. Giles Hitchens was tried twentytwo years ago in the Georgetown court

THE MURDER OF HIS OWN CHILD. and the circumstances of the case have almost faded away from the memory of even the old people. I heard the story the other day from an old man who assisted in Hitchens' arrest. "In February, 1857," said he, "Giles was a farmer, and lived near Concord, at the same place I think where he now resides. He was well known in his section. tion, but was always looked upon as a queer sort of a fellow, with no very established character. His wife was an estimable woman, much liked by the neighbors. One day I was in the woods splitting rails, when a neighbor came to me in great excitement and said I must go with him to Giles Hitchens' house, for

HE HAD MURDERED HIS BABY, and his wife was almost frantic. Two or three of us got together, supposing we might meet with resistance, and when we arrived at the house we found Hitchens bending over the bed where lay his child, a boy of about eighteen months, with his head gashed from ear to ear and almost complete severed from the body. The bed was soaked with blood, which was oozing from the wound and there was a line of blood from the front door to the bed. The mother was weeping hysterically, but by this time had become almost ex-hausted. Hitchens was calm, but there was a fierce, burning light in his eyes. He seemed to be praying and made no resistance when were securing him so as to take him to Georgetown. He said he loved his boy, but that

THE LORD HAD COMMANDED HIM to offer him up as a sacrifice, and no voice said, 'Stay thy hand.'
The night before the horrible deed he attended a Methodist protracted meet-ing and confessed conviction. When he came home late in the night he appeared to be under great excitement. The sermon had been about Abraham and the sacrifice of Isaac. This ap peared to have made a great impression upon him and he slept but little, getpray. His own story to the woods to night he had heard the voice of God which commanded him to kill his little son and offer his blood as a sacrifice. In the morning he went to the woods and was again commanded, as he said, to make the offering. He did not dare to disobey and went back to the house where the babe was sleeping and its mother watching over him. Not wishing to alarm his wife, he waited until she went out and then took the child in his arms and carried it to the potato patch, having in the meantime pre-pared a keen knife. Then he waited like Abraham, hoping that the Lord would speak to him again and command him to make some other offering,

BUT HE RECEIVED NO SIGN. Then he became alarmed lest his wife might be watching, and crossing the road went into the woods, where he laid the child upon some leaves and again prayed. During the prayer a little dog ran up to him and sniffed about his feet. Supposing that, like Abraham's ram, this dog had been sent by the Lord in place of the child, he waited to hear a voice commanding him to kill the dog, but no voice said 'Stay thy hand,' and he held the struggling infant while he cut its throat and offered up its blood to the Lord. Then taking the body in his arms he bore it to the house, the blood dripping as he walked, and laid it upon the bed. His wife rushing from the house, frantically told the neighbors, and we arrested him, as I have said. We took him to Georgetown that afternoon, and he was securely lodged in jail to await trial."

The trial occurred the following April, and the prosecution was vigor-ous. George P. Fisher was attorney-general and Chancellor Saulsbury, then a promising young lawyer, defended Hitchens. After the State had closed its case, Mr. Saulsbury rose to make a defense, but was so overcome with emotion at the sadness of the circumstances that he was unable to continue, AND BROKE COMPLETELY DOWN. The court and jury were also affected, and the latter, without leaving the box, returned a verdict of "not guilty," upon the plea of insanity. Hitchens was taken to the county alms-house, where he remained for some time, but was finally discharged and returned to

Since then he has lived quietly, and the people seem to have almost for-gotten the terrible circumstances. His wife died soon after he was released from the alms-house and Hitchens did not remain single very long. He courted a Miss Lollis, of this place, and she married him, much to the surprise she married him, much to the surprise of everybody here and much against the wishes of her family. When he comes into town he mingles freely with people. There are few traces of insanity in his manners although all his movements are abrupt and nervous. Hitchens life is by no means religious now, and his character is none of the best. No one has any confidence in him. He lives in the house where he him. He lives in the house where he bore the body of his son after the trag-edy in the woods. I believe he owns the farm upon which he lives, and has always been what is termed in Sussex "good liver."

columbiana (Ohio) Times. A sort of trade secret among upholsterers, it is said, is this recipe for ridding furniture of moths: A set of fur-niture that seemed to be alive with the larvæ, from the month it came new, and from which hundreds of these pests had been picked and brushed, was set into a room by itself. Three gallons of benzine were purchased, at thirty cents a gallon retail. Using a small watering pot, with a fine rose small watering pot, with a fine rose sprinkler, the whole upholstery was saturated through with the benzine. Result—Every moth larva and egg was killed. The benzine dried out in a few hours, and its entire oder disappeared. hours, and its entire odor disappeared in three or four days. Not the slightest harm happened to the varnish, or wood, or fabrics, or hair-stuffing. That was months ago, and not the sign of a moth has since appeared. The carpets were also well sprinkled all round the sides also well sprinkled all round the sides of the room with equally good effect. For furs, flannels, indeed all woolen articles containing moths, benzine is most valuable. Put them in a box, sprinkle them with benzine, close the box tightly, and in a day or two the pests will be exterminated, and the benzine will all evaporate on opening. In using benzine great care should be taken that no fire is near by, as the stuff in fluid or vapor form is very instuff in fluid or vapor form is very in-

Worm. Werm.

We have already published an account from Professor Riley of the early appearance of the cotton worm in Southern Alabama. We give now, with Professor Riley's permission, the substance of a late report from Mr. E. A. Schwarz, one of the agents of the U. S. Entomological Commission, who is now making a systematic investigation of the cotton fields of the Colorado bottom in South Texas. He did not succeed in in South Texas. He did not succeed in finding any trace of the insect up to May 26th ult, On that date he visited the farm of X. T. W. Anderson, about two miles from Columbus, and situated in the bottom. Mr. Anderson has a cotton field of about 100 acres, and in one corner of it is a depression, or rather a hollow, about three acres in size er a hollow, about three acres in size and with very wet soil. In this depression Mr. Schwarz found four chrysalids of the cotton worm, two of them already empty, the third occupied by the larvæ of a small hymenopterous parasite (a chalcid), and the fourth alive. From these facts it follows that the five representation of mother (a vest) the first generation of moths (a very few specimens which have succeed in hibernating) deposited their eggs least as early as the 1st of May. As several similarly low wet places had previously been examined in the same locality without success, Prof. Riley attributes the appearance of the worm at that particular point to the circum-stance mentioned by Mr. Schwarz that the gin house is on the edge of it. The gin houses in Texas are much more substantially built than east of the Mis sissippi, and are very likely to be the favorite hiding place of the moth in winter time. Mr. Schwarz continues: "On the same day where I found the first Aletia at Columbus I had arranged with Mr. Geo. Witting an expedition to Lavaca county to visit Mr. Gerrits, who has the reputation of always having the first cotton worms of the season on his place. Mr. Gerrits' farm is situated about eight miles north of Halletsville. The country is open pairie land, very rolling and intersected by numerous creeks, each being lined with a narrow strip of timber. The farm is on the top of one of the highest hills in the country, about 400 feet higher than Columbus, and about 80 feet above the Lavaca creek, which is half a mile distant. Mr. Gerrits said that he had seen the worms last Sunday (May 25th) on the same spot in his field where they appeared first in 1877. This spot (about one-third of an acre) at the northern edge of the field has nothing peculiar whatever, the plants are the same size as those of the rest of the field, and had been planted at the same time, but the worms were only to be found in this small spot.

The worms were numerous here. I found six on one plant, and about thirty in all, and there must have been more than one hundred on this little n the adjacent corn field. I failed to find any trace of Aletia on two other fields near Gerrit's place, as also in three fields in the Lavaca bottom; but on the next day (May 28th) while examining the field of Mr. Ladewig, three miles from Gerrits' farms and situated in the Lavaca bottom, I found four almost fullgrown worms on a little patch which had been planted two weeks later than the rest of the field. * * The task of looking for the eggs of Aletia at the season is aggravated by myriads of aphids or plant lice on the underside of the leaves. I had ample occasion to convince myself that this Aphis is a most serious enemy to the cotton plant. It attacks the young plants, and by sucking the tender stalks and young leaves, often kills whole fields, so that farmers are sometimes obliged to re plant two or three times. If less numerous, this Aphis retards the growth of the plants, thus rendering them more exposed to the attacks of Aletia."

While Prof. Riley believes, from the facts already reported, that the worms will be abundant enough to permit of practical experiments with them, he says that it would be unsafe and premature to anticipate a bad cotton worm year. On the contrary the appearance of the worm in such restricted localities is a favorable augury, and he does not believe that it is any earlier than in other years. It is reported earlier simply because special observers have been sent to seek it, while normally its appearance is not reported till, by the second or third generation, it becomes numerous and attracts general atten-

The Price of Cotton.

Rural Messenger. Considering the very large crop of last year, produced in this country—over five million bales—the price of cotton to-day compares favorably with that of any period since it became a leading staple of this country. We have before us a table giving the price of cetton in New York for fifty years past, and we find that in 1842 and '43 the average price per pound was 71 cents, in 1844, 5.63 cents, 1847—'48, 8 cents, and several other years almost as low. With the large crop of last year on the mar-ket, cotton is now selling at from 8 to 10 cents per pound, showing that the consumption of this article has in-creased and we have every reason to believe is still increasing, and there no probability that the price will fall materially lower than it is now. True, other countries are producing largely of this staple, but their material does not equal that of the South and cannot displace it in the markets. In a word the world cannot do without Southern cotton, and there is certainly encouragement for Southern planters to continue to grow it as a money crop. If now they will set their wits to work to produce more lint to the acre at a very small advance on present cost for better implements, and better cultivation, they may thereby find a paying profit on this crop. The number of pounds produced per acre is the first item required to calculate the cost of production, and the atter decreases of yield. The obstacle of low prices must be overcome by imof low prices must be overcome by im-proved cultivation. And if this should be the result, the low price will in the end prove a blessing, as thereby it will lead to improved farms and better

What Tobacco Planters Should Raise. Durham Tobacco Plant.

A casual observer may go on any to-bacco market and they will be struck with the vast quantity of common to-bacco that is being raised and sold. There is no profit in raising inferior grades of tobacco, but every planter should endeavor to raise a fine quality of the weed. The man who raises fine the weed. The man who raises fine tobacco is growing rich rapidly, but on the other hand he who is raising common stuff is growing poorer. The main object should be not to raise the largest number of pounds, but to make every nound fines than any body also in the pound finer than any body else in the country.

COMMENCEMENT DAY.

HAPEL HILL FILLED TO OVER-FLOWING.

The Largest Attendance Since 1860-3,000 Pilgrims Present-Dr. Hoge

CHAPEL HILL, June 4.- Yesterday was anything but a pretty day. From the morning until late at night constant showers of rain followed rapidly upon the tracks of each other, and many feared that Commencement week would be damp and disagreeable. However, this did not prevent the people from flocking into Chapel Hill all day long, and by night the excellent little hotel here was

WELL-NIGH CROWDED.

It was not known until Monday that Senator Thurman would certainly not be here, and your readers can well imagine the disappointment felt by the Faculty and all others interested upon receipt of the intelligence. It created no little confusion on the part of the Faculty, who had been so confident of his attendance; they had taken particular pains to contradict every rumor that he would not come, and they were at a loss to determine what course to pursue toward supplying his place. This confusion and uncertainty was heightened by another painful rumor which gained currency, to the effect that Dr. Hoge also was unavoidably prevented from putting in an appearance; however, this rumor was about 2 o'clock dispelled by the arrival of the distinguished divine.

At a meeting of the Faculty yesterday afternoon it was determined to substitute Dr. Hoge for Senator Thurman in delivering the address before the literary societies, and let Solicitor General Phillips' address before the Alumni and the other prearranged attractions form the programme for to-day.

THE PHILANTHROPIC AND DIALECTIC SOCIETIES

held their annual meeting in their respective halls last night, and doubtless had most pleasant times, though your reporter is unable to give any information on that subject as these societies are secret in their nature, and the members thereof seem to have acquired for this occasion the solemn and uncommunicating character of Bay View oysters in a very eminent degree.

After these meetings had been adjourned the lovers of the dance repaired to the library building, which was brilliantly lighted, and for hours

The rain continued until midnight, but this morning the weather was unuall of its autiful ... The sun came out in but laid the dust, cooled the atmosphere and apparently came merely for this beautiful day, overhung as it is with a sky which is "cloudless save with rare and roseate shadows."

Early this morning the Salem brass band discoursed sweet music from a stand which had been erected in the middle of the beautiful college campus. About 10 o'clock the people began to flock to Girard Hall, where the addresses were to be delivered. The band, which occupied a position in the rear gallery, played popular airs while the audience was assembling. At precisely 10:30 o'clock Gov. Jarvis walked into the hall, when the entire audience spontaneously arose and received, with deafening cheers, the chief executive of our noble old State, while the band, seemingly taking up the general enthusiasm, struck up an appropriate air.

On the rostrum were seated Rev. Moses D. Hoge, D. D., of Richmond; Hon. Sam'l F. Phillips, Solicitor-General of the United States; His Excelleney Gov. Jarvis; Rev. C. B. Hassell, of Martin county; President Battle, and others. In the chancel we noticed a large number of the most prominent men of the State, who have made their annual rilgrimage to old Chapel Hill, their loved and revered Mecca. About 11:30 President Battle called the audience to order and announced that the Commencement exercises of the University of North Carolina for the year of 1879 would be opened with prayer by Rev. C. B. Hassell, of Martin county. The reverend gentleman came forward and offered to the Supreme Ruler a fervent prayer, after which the band sweetly played a hymn. Then at 11:45 Mr. Henry Faison, a student from Duplin county, introduced Rev. M. D. Hoge, D.D., of Virginia, who had been selected to deliver the annual address before the literary societies in the place of Senator Thurman.

Doctor Hoge came forward, and after a few eloquent remarks in reference to the beautiful day and many witicisms complimentary to

THE ASSEMBLED FEMALE BEAUTY, and male gallantry, announced his subject to be: "The nobility and the beauty of an unselfish life.' Upon this subject the eloquent divine delivered one of the most elegant, chaste, scholarly, and at the same time useful and practical addresses it was ever the rare good fortune of this writer to listen to. The frequent outbursts of rapturous applause which greeted the speaker, testified to the delight with which the address was received; and when we take into consideration the fact that it was purely AN EXTEMPORANEOUS EFFORT, the Doctor, not being aware that he had the duty to perform until 8 o clock last night, it was certainly deserved. I shall not attempt to give even a synopsis of Dr. Hoge's remarks, for I could but do him injustice. Suffice it to say, lost nothing by the non-appearance of the Ohio Senator. And now having expressed what I

I am sure I speak but the sentiment of the entire audience when I say we have honestly believe to be the sentiment of the audience in one particular, I will venture to express it in another, and here is just what I have to say: There is no doubt of the fact that

THE SOUTH HAS A SUPERABUNDANCE of that peculiar talent necessary to supply all of our colleges with Commencement orators, and it is to be hoped that hereafter the Faculty, not only of the University but of all other Southern educational institutions, will not run wild over prominent politicians, from a distance whose national political fame is expected to metamorphose them into more of a show than an orator, and thereby draw a crowd, but will cordially invite our own prominent men and be particular to see to it, that the one who is honored with such an invitation happens to be one who will keep his promise, and not disappoint. Dr. Hoge's address was completed a one o'clock, when, after music by the band, President Battle announced that the Alumni Society would hold a meeting; whereupon Major J. W. Graham, of Orange, arose and announced to the Alumni that in the death of the honored and lamented Judge Battle, the Society had lost its president, and he nominated for chairman of the meeting Professor J. DeB. Hooper of the University, who being unanimously elected took the chair.

Mr. Fab. H. Busbee, of Raleigh, in a few appropriate remarks introduced to the association the Hon. Samuel Field Phillips, the orator of the occasion, who came forward and delivered from manuscript, an oration of the past, eloquent eulogies upon recently deceased members of the association, and wise and valuable suggestions in regard to the future of the association and the University.

Mr. Phillips' address is spoken of in the very highest terms by all, and the general opinion is that it should be printed and circulated all over the State in the interest of the University.

Paul C. Cameron was unanimously elected permanent President.

Professor W. C. Kerr, after a few remarks on the subject, made a motion that a committee be appointed to take into consideration the subject of erecting a monument on Mt. Mitchell to the honor of Dr. Mitchell; and Professor Kerr, S. F. Phillips and John Manning were appointed as such committee. This committee will report at a called meeting to-morrow.

and gentlemen will participate in the mazy German, all of which will be reported by mail.

of the most intelligent citizens of the State are in attendance to-day. The chapel was filled to its utmost capacity. It is stated by the oldest citizens that the crowd is larger to-day than it has been since the ante-bellum times. Up to the time of this writing it is safe to say that at least 3,000 visitors are present. The popular University Hotel, kept by Miss Nancy Hilliard, of known fame, is overflowing, and in fact all the boarding houses are taxed to their utmost to accommodate the visitors. The Salem Brass Band adds great life and spirit to the scene to-day, and the Italian String Band of Raleigh will soothe the soul during the entertainment to-night. Everybody seems to be animated and eager for the enjoyment of the occasion.

PERSONAL.

Among the many prominent visitors from the city of Raleigh were Governor Jarvis and lady, Colonel Saunders, Secretary of State; R. H. Battle, Esq., A. M. Lewis, Esq. and family, Dr. R. H. Lewis, Mr. Julius Lewis and his elegant lady, Mr. G. M. Smedes, Mr. P. H. Andrews, R. M. Wilson, Esq., of the Observer, Mr. M. T. Leach, Dr. James McKee, Judge Fowle and his daughters, Misses Matti e and Maggie.

I must close, as Mr. Watson, the most enterprising carrier in the State, is at my elbow jogging my memory that he has got to go to Raleigh to-night and le back in Chapel Hill to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock. It is only 28 miles to Raleigh. I write in great haste, in order to obey his commands, as he may be said to be the master of the situation.

Snakes, Fishes and Spiders. A correspondent of the Asheville Journal writes of one of the largest snakes ever seen in Rutherford county. It was of the adder species, and was eleven feet six and a half inches in length, and measured twelve and three-quarter inches around the body. It was shot several times with rifles, and was shot several times with rifles, and found to have teeth like a fice's. The same day Mr. Bynum Walker, of the same county, killed with a pole a blue spider, white spotted, which measured six inches across the back, was eleven inches long and had legs like a man's Mr. Z. Bass, of Irwin county, caught Mr. Z. Bass, of Irwin county, caught recently a catfish, a squirrel and alligator all upon the same hook at the same time. A Sweeping Furlough. Washington Star.

Saturday last there was a wholesal Saturday last there was a wholesale furlough of the employees of the Government printing office. So complete was the sweep this time, that except the hands of the Record and specification rooms, there were not fifty employees left in the largest printing house in the world. Mr. Defrees is absent from the city, and one of the excuses from the city, and one of the excuses given for the furlough is that the un-anticipated work on the Record and in the document room, has absorbed the current appropriation.

A Pennsylvania Senator says he can bribe any paper in his State for fifty dollars. He is too honest to do it though.

VOUDOOISM IN NEW YORK

LATED BY MLLE. DE VAILLIE. A Mere Child's Attempt to Murder

Three Persons in Order to Get Their Property and Jewels. ew York Star. A short and stout lady, dressed in silks, her ears, fingers and person loaded with jewelry, made her way through the throng in the Yorkville Police Court yesterday, leading a neatly dressed little olive-complexioned girl, evidently of negro extraction, and paused in front of the Justice's desk. "What can I de for you, Madame?"

asked Justice Kilbreth.

In a voluble manner the lady stated that the little girl accompanying her had made many attempts to kill her. The magistrate immediately became interested, and listened to the woman's story, which savored strongly of the superstitions and practices of Voudooism among the natives of the West Indies, where the narrator lived for a number of years. An officer, by the direction of the Justice, conducted the two to a private room, where the lady told the Justice that her name was Mile. Elfretta De Vaillie, of No. 343 East Fif-tieth street, a Parisian by birth, and for many years instructress of the French language and literature in the Normal College. In very good English, but with a decided foreign accent, Mile. De Vaillie told the following story, frequently pausing in her statements to ask the little girl if they were true, and always receiving an affirmative reply always receiving an affirmative reply in a whisper:

"This little girl," said Mile. Vaillie, "is Eugenie Eliza Burton; she is now 9 years old, and she has tried to kill me; her mother, she said, told her to, and she tried to kill me so as to get my property. This is the daughter of a colored woman named Miss Emily Robinson; I don't know who her father was: this waman Robinson had an older was; this weman Robinson had an older daughter than this girl whose father was a colored man named Burton; I was godmother, by proxy to the girl, who was named Dora. The father of Dora was hamed ford. The lather of Dors was the descendant of one of the slaves belonging to an estate in Kingston, Jamaica, left me by a grand-uncle; the estate I have lost, but I still keep up a correspondence with some of the faithful old servants of my family; Burton I caused to be advected in this country. caused to be educated in this country as a chemist, and he went back to Jamaica; about four years ago I wrote to Ja-maica, to the mother of Dora, to send me the girl, as I wanted the descendants of one of my old slaves to help me in my housework, and I would care and educate her: Dora came to me four years ago from Kingston, and has always been faithful.

"After Dora came," continued Mlle. De Vaillie, "her mother began writing to me about her other daughter, who she said was white and had blonde hair. The meeting of Trustees takes place this evening, and to-night we have the senior speaking, after which the ladies said was white and had blonde hair. She sent me a lock of Eugenie's hair, and the back about two years ago and told her to send the child. The next steamer brought Euchild. genie. Her hair you see is not blonde. I took her home, and for a week she never spoke; I thought she was dumb. I found out she w: s mischievous. She destroyed, was bot alathing three that always to bring the blame on her nalf sister. Instead of eating her food at the table, she usually left it untasted, and afterward would steal it. About nine months ago I began to feel very strange. At night, sometimes, I felt as if the roof of my head was being taken off. My invalid sister complained of similar illnesses. I was kept away from college for five days at a time by a choking sensation in the throat, which I thought was diphtheria. Two months ago, on a very stormy night, I was aroused by the same sensations; a heavy weight was on my chest, something grasped me by the throat, and some one was blowing their breath into my was blowing their breath into my mouth; it was Eugenie, and when she found that I was awake she jumped off found that I was awake she jumped off the bed and run into her room. I ques-tioned, and questioned her about her conduct, and at last she admitted that she had been trying to kill me. Her mother, she said, had told her to kill both me and my sister, and that if she did so she would have all our property and jewels. When she had killed us she was to send for her mother. She she was to send for her mother. She was also to kill her half-sister Dora, so that she would have all our property herself. She admitted that she tried to kill my sister; one day I found Eugenie playing with a knife, she held the knife to her own throat, feeling the sharpness, and I heard her say, 'Why didn't I use

When Mile. De Vaillie had concluded her astonishing narrative, Justice Kil-breth began questioning Eugenie, and stroking her short and silken hair: "Did you ever try to kill this lady, "1es, sir," responded the child in a whisper, looking askance at Mile. De

"Did she ever ill treat you?"

"Why did you try to kill her?" "Because," said the child, again look-ing queerly at Mille. De Vaillie, "my mother told me to."
"Why did she want you to kill her?" "So as to get Madamoiselle's and her sister's things."

"What were you going to do to your sister Dora? "Turn her out, and send for mother." "Who told you to choke Mile. De Vaillie and blow into her mouth?"

"My mother." "How many times did you do this?" "I don't know."
"Did you do the same to Mile. De Vaillie's sister?"

"Yes, sir, and to Dora, too."
While Eugenie was making these answers her eyes wandered in the direction of Mile. De Vaillie, evidently to see what impression her replies made on her.

Mme. De Vaillie said she desired that the child be sent to some institution, and after she had made out an affidavit and after she had made out an amount requesting that the girl be sent to the Colored Orphan Home, Justice Kilbreth told her to go with Eugenie to the offices of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children and tell her story there. An investigation will probably be made by the society, and upon their report Justice Kilbreth will take action. take action.

free use of pen and ink. It may be, however, that when he wrote the following he conceived that he was applying balsam to the galled sores of Mr. Taft's adherents by gently hinting that a third term was not a popular idea among the masses: "The newspapers have given out a "false impression, I think, as to the "significance of my nomination, by "calling it a victory for John Sherman. "The possibility of his becoming a "Presidential candidate was not taken "into consideration. General Grant has "a great many warm friends in Ohio, "and, if he were nominated, he would "receive the support of the general "mass of Republican voters. There is "a strong antipathy, however, to the "establishment of the third-term pre-"cedent. President Hayes, it is gener-"ally supposed, is precluded by his ut-"terances from being a candidate for re-"election."

"The newspapers having given out a "false impression" is really good. We have been taught by several years' experience in the newspaper business that political journals always give out wrong impressions, especially when an article is inspired by some leading politician who professes to know and understand the situation. But the partieular impression referred to by Mr. Foster is outside the field of newspaperdom; it was given out by the Grant men who were supporting Mr. Taft, and pretty loudly, too; and as a matter of course when the press seized upon it it was rightly classed as a victory for Mr. Sherman and a check to the Grant

"The possibility of his (Sherman) be-"coming a Presidential candidate was "not taken into consideration." Mr. Foster is either an adept in the art of lying or totally blind as to the significance of the workings in the Ohio political field that resulted in his nomination. It was known to the initiated before the strength of the opposing factious could be accurately stated that Mr. Sherman was bound to have Ohio for a stepping-stone to the Republican nomination, and that if no nomination was made by the tenth ballot that he let his lieutenant fill the second place on the ticket. This programme was so when the blunders are made the issues well known that the proceedings of the convention were watched with great anxiety from Maine to Texas. Therefore if Mr. Foster was so stupid as not to be aware of the existing state of things, he had better put his canvass writing, and keep out of sight till elec-

"It is supposed that "Mr. Haves' utterances," etc. Utterances is a decidedly mild way of putting it. It was heralded throughout the country in the campaign of 1876 that Mr. Hayes would not if elected accept a second nomination, and and in fact it was plainly so expressed in his letter of acceptance, and therefore the supposition that his utterances precludes his accepting a renomination would naturally turn into an established fact. But unfortunately for the halo of integrity that is popularly supposed to encircle the presence of the high dignitaries of the land, Mr. Hayes has been so vacillating in his course that no reliance can be placed on his words or movements, and he is just as liable to seek a second candidacy as Grant is a third: and undoubtedly will do so if he thinks that circumstances make it necessary. The truth is apparent that Hayes favors Grant in preference to Sherman, and he will leave no stone unturned to secure the former's nomination. Mr. Sherman is a wily politician, and he and his lieutenant have materially aided the newspapers to give out an impression that he is trying to soothe both sides by the wonderful conjunction of sugared phrases contained in Mr. Foster's letter.

So it seems the Democratic policy in regard to the appropriation bills was not correctly foreshadowed in Sunday's NEWS. The statement in the NEWS was accompanied by a very suspicious intimation of its unreliability. A protracted session of "the committee of safety," or Joint Caucus Committee of the two houses has put forth the following:

"The passage of the army bill mak-"ing the usual appropriation for the "army for the next fiscal year, with a "proviso to the effect that no money ap-"propriated in the bill shall be used to "transport, equip, pay or subsist any "troops to be used as a police force to "keep the peace at the polls."

"The passage of the legislative bill as it was reported to the last and the present Congress, with the exception that each appropriation shall be specifically set forth and the use to which it shall be devoted described, and that no appropriation shall be made for the pay of supervisors and deputy marshals. In order to make this omission of an appropriation for the marshal and supervisors more effective, a clause will be added that no officer shall be appointed or obligation incurred for any object for which a specific appropriation is not made in the bill."

The National Republican regards it as "a sort of be d-d if you do, and be d-d if you don't arrangement."

That they "are of no avail really, so "long as no national elections of any "importance will occur during the "year to which the bills apply." The Washington Post at last recognizes the fact that "it is impossible to "pass these bills over the Executive "veto." The Post, with a show of stalwart-courage further observes: "But this is backing down," shrieks some man who demands impossibili-

"down about it. It is all that can be done until somebody will arise and show how a bare half of Congress "may be made to count as two-thirds. When that is done the original bills can be passed over the veto of the Fraud, and the work will be done for 'all time.

The News took this position at the outset. The News has at heart the success of the Democratic party. It has differed with some of its contemporaries and with some of the recognized leaders of the Democratic party as to the surest means of attaining that end.

The Democratic party is a party of principles. So regarding it the NEWS will never be found following blindly the lead of designing and ambitious politicians.

SENATORIAL RHETORIC.

The speeches of our Senators and Representatives in Congress are none too remarkable as examples of right reason and good rhetoric; but it is seldom that any of our public men exhibit such such extreme ignorance and unmitigated donkeyism as were displayed by John A. Logan, for the second time a Senator from Illinois, in a little speech which he made in defense of Poker Bob Schenck against the aspersions of Senator Saulsbury. Here is a passage in which the prairie statesman explored the depths of bathos: "When treason stalked abroad in this land; when this mighty nation of ours was reeling and rocking to and fro like a distressed vessel upon the stormy seas, he came forward and with that strong arm of his he reached out that he might assist in steadying her as she rode the billows of treason." Sir Boyle Roche in his bulliest days never mixed metaphor more abundantly than this. The spectacle of Bob Schenck, standing on the shore of a mighty ocean, and reaching out his hand (of four aces) to a ship that was laboring in the storm-tossed waves, and "steadying" her as she pitched and plunged, was too much for good nature or Senatorial gravity, and it was no wonder that Logan's audience burst into a laugh. After that the absurdity of the statement that Schenck was "crippled, maimed and disabled" by wounds received in defense of his country was hardly noticed, even by those who were aware that the "wounds" referred to consisted of the blunders that Schenck called battles.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Since the Republican party, through its Representatives in Congress, repu diated one of the most distinct promises of the party in 1876, it is just as well that the Ohio Republicans, who opened the campaign of 1880, made no distinct promises yesterday. It is likely to be several years from now when intelli-gent men will place the least confidence in the promises of either party. For-tunately for the Republicans, the Democrats have given them a good platform.

The stupid blunders of the Democratic leaders have been mildly appreciated would step in and take command and by the masses of both parties-that ap-Sentinel.

We would suggest to our colored brethren who desire to leave the sunny South that no Northern State just now offers such advantages to easy going enterprise as Massachusetts. Nothing s necessary but for the husband and and condren can soon acquire a competence under the provisions of the Civil Damage act. This is far better than forty acres and a mule, and the man and brother who would not be willing to sweetly sacrifice himself for his family does not deserve the blessings of freedom. -Booklyn Eagle.

THE Boston Herald has the following remarkable ebullition of wit: The story goes at Washington that Speaker Randall met Congressman Leopold Morse of one of the Boston districts the other day, and blandly inquired how the party stood at Boston. Which party?" replied Morse. "Why the Democratic party, of course," said Randall. "There isn't any Democratic party there," exclaimed Morse, in his quick, business-like way. "The Congress has killed it.' "Our people will never yield to a standing army were it a million strong," said ex-Secretary Robeson significantly in his late speech in defense of Haves sary TO SACRIFICE LIBERTY TO ORDER. This ought to be pasted where it could be read frequently to the good souls who think there is no harm in allowing soldiers to be ordered to the polls-there are so few of them .- Washington Post.

The Journal would gladly forget the war of the rebellion, and desires nothing more fervently than that the hide ous skeleton of State sovereignty be forever buried; but so long as it is an issue in this country, and so long as the men who now uphold it continue to assert it, it will never cease to urge upon the public the remembrance of of the war and all its horrors, sorrows, debts and disasters. - Indianapolis

President Hayes has been strong enough for the emergency, and will send the Confederates home with their tails down in the end. If there is anything in the argument, it is a reason why Hayes should be re-nominated and re-elected.—Utica (N. Y.) Herald.

It is quite probable that many of the colored voters of Ohio will refuse to support Charles Foster. As his nomination will compel them to refrain from voting, may it not be regarded as a sort of bulldozing?

According to the Boston Transcript, an organ of respectable Républicanism, "Ohio performed a great service for the Republican party, by casting its immense weight against Grantism."

The subsidence of the Grant boom should be a signal that the Bristow movement might venture to upheave again for one of its old-fashioned periodical convulsions.

It is astonishing how suddenly the worst rebel ceases to be dangerous when he joins the Republican party. This is the true test of lovalty.

The Markets.

A New York letter of May 31st thus refers to the dry goods and other markets: "Grocers, tobacco, and iron and metals quiet, but firm. As to dry goods, it is to be said that agents continue to make large deliveries of staple cotton and woolen fabrics, chiefly on account of back orders; new business is only moderate. Cotton goods are very firm, and stocks are comparatively small. Prints remain quiet. Staple ginghams are in steady request, but fancy styles are sluggish. Printed fancy styles are sluggish. Printed lawns are doing well, while fancy cassimeres and cheviots are fairly active. Foreign goods quiet."

The Army Worm.

On the grass fields near Norfolk the army worm has entered and commenced depredations in earnest. They leave no blade of grass behind them worm has also made its appearance in other portions of Norfolk county, and it is feared will do much serious dama e to the growing crops, especially the corn, Fortunately, however, much of the grass and clover in this section has been cut, or will be in a few days. In the last five years the consumption of Oatmeal in this country has probably increased twenty-fold. People differ so much in their likes and dislikes that we do not insist on anybody eating oatmeal because somebody else does, but the great growth of its popularity as an anti-dyspeptic is beyond doubt. Generally the Irish and Scotch Meals are considered best, but they sell comparatively high, and persons who have used both say that the Canadian and American Meals are just as good; these latter retail for 6/4c, per b. against 15c, for former.

Womack "Flopped."

Here is that anecdote about Randolph. long cherished in Smithville, Va., and never doubted. It is said that a certain Tom Womack, who was a great wag and practical joker, either laid a wager or else made up his mind that, for his own satisfaction and the public delec-tation, the old, but not bloated, aristocrat, Jack Randolph, should walk be-tween his (Womack's) legs. Accordingly he constructs a pair of stilts some twelve or fifteen feet high, mounts them from the top of the tavern porch, on hearing of Randolph's approach in his chariot, sailies forth into the middle of the street and spraddles his legs wide apart, determined that Randolph, coach and all, should pass sub natem. Whether he had been apprised of Wo-mack's design or not is not stated, but just as the chariot was about to pass under it halted, and Randolph's skeleton form protruded through the win-dow, with what Carlyle would call a sufficient horse-pistol in his hand.
"Come down!', said a voice keen as a rapier and as deadly.

Womack, in the tobacco idiom of my informant, "flopped"—he come down and never went up again.

once every half hour, to have the bile and other impurities straiged or filtered from it. Bile is the natural purgative of the bowels, and if the Liver becomes torpid it is not separated from the blood, but carried through the veins to all parts of the system, and in trying to escape through the porce of the skin, causes it to turn yellow or a dirty brown color. The stomach becomes diseased, and Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation, Headache, Biliousness, Jaundice, Chills, Malarial Fevers, Piles, Sick and Sour Stomach, and general debility follow, Merrell C. Shara Tinn, the great vegetable discovery for torpidity, causes the Liver to throw off from one to wo conces of bile each time the blood passes shrough it, as long as there is an excess of bile; and the effect of even a few doses upon yelle we complexion or a brown dirty looking skin, will astonish all who try it—they being the first symptoms to disappear. The cure of all bilious diseases and Liver complaint is made certain by taking HEPATINE in accordance with directions. Headache is generally cured in twenty minutes, and no disease that arises from the Liver can exist if a fair trial is given.

By Hon. A. W. Tourgee. By Hon. A. W. Tourgee.

We are bappy to announce to the legal profession that this valuable work is now ready for delivery to subscribers. The labor of preparation and the necessity of securing the utmost possible accuracy in the immense number of citations, has necessarily delayed the work, but the result cannot but be satisfactory to every practioner. It contains every case in the Reports—of the State which has been cited by the Court, the cases in which cited, whether with approval or disapproval, with a careful digest of the point of citati c), with a full and accurate index to the subject matter of each. In form, matter, completeness and style of publication, it is undoubtedly the best law form, matter, completeness and style of publication, it is undoubtedly the best law book ever published in the State containing 750 large double-column pages, 5,162 cited cases and about 30,000 citations. It will be mailed to subscribers on receipt of the price $12 with 25 cents for postage. Or sent by Express C. O. D. when there is an office convenient. A Water Elevator. Stephen Henley, of Pittsboro, has an im proved water elevator and purifier, for which he has the agency for this county. It is highly spoken of for its efficiency in making foul or bad water good, so that a person does not have to pump out a barrel of water to get a good fresh drink. He proposes to advertise it extensively and give our citizens a chance to examine it as to its merits.

Instructed and Delighted. Every person who has read "Moore School History of North Carolina," ex presses admiration of the book. Mr. J M. Professional Questions. How does water get in the bladder? was a question asked an applicant for license to practice medicine, by the examining board at Greensboro last week By a duct reaching from the throat to the bladder that passed through the stomach, the contents of which gave color to it, was his reply. And this young scion of Esculapius has been practicing medicine three years and each year applied in vain for a license.

How would you cure the dropsy? was a question asked another young M. D. Cut the skin and let the water out, was his reply. Bright idea that.

A Question for Brother P. The question asked was, Who is the most accomplished underwriter in Raleigh? "All are well posted, but for his years and experience, W. S. Primrose, secretary of the North Carolina Home, in my opinion, takes the lead, and if he lives ten years, and continues to study the laws that govern insurance as heretofore, he will outrank any in the Eastern States," was brother Pescud's reply. This was indeed a high and well deserved compliment, coming from the oldest and most experienced underwriter in the State, and the rapid progress of the North Carolina Home Insurance Company, since Mr. Primrose's connection with it, speak volumes in favor of its present

What a Contrast! Exclaimed a visitor to Deacon P. at Oakwood Cemetery on Sunday afternoon, as they passed certain lots clean and in splendid order, and others so shamefully neglected, that the graves and headstones were partially concealed with weeds. "The owners of the neatly kept lots pay the association a small sum annually to keep them in order, while the owners of the neglected lots seem to have forgotten that they contain the remains of those they once loved so tenderly," replied the deacon. Verily the management should enforce the rules and require the owners of lots to keep them in order. By the way, we would call attention to the grave of some one recently buried in the northern part of the grounds that has

About Listing Taxables.

A Singular Occurrence.

The man that vends the stick-'emtight-never-to-be-separated cement met with a curious experience yesterday morning. He had a frame-work erected from which were suspended various antique specimens of delf, criss-crossed with ochre marks showing where the supposed fractures existed, each wearing a pendant presumed to weigh one hundred pounds, and alongside his stock of glue was displayed. He had been haranguing a dusky crowd on the great need of every household, which was to have constantly on hand and ready to apply immediately some preparation to mend everything from a broken dish to a bursted heart, and expatiated largely and loudly on the merits of the particular article that he was trying to sell. By some mishap ke had lropped a bottle of the precious mixture, spilling it over a good-sized stone little darkey, thinking it a fine opportunity to mend the rents in the back of his jacket, laid down and rolled over in it, but when he attempted to rise he was muchly surprised at the wonderful philosophical power of cohesion, for he was stuck fast. They raised him up, and as the semi-liquid had saturated his clothing everything was fastened tightly to his skin, the cement having turned to a substance harder than stone. The peddler pointed to this new proof of the virtue of his wares, and exultingly said:

"Now, I will take this youngster, bore a hole through his ears and hang him up on the frame with the rest of my specimens." Somebody demurred to this, stating that the ears were too tender to sustain such a weight, to which the glue man replied that he would soak them in the cement and then they would be hard enough for anything. By this time the virtue of the glue had become more and more energy, it had penetrated and more apparent; it had penetrated the lad's system and wonderfully in-creased his strength, and he strutted around with the enormous load as if it were nothing but an ordinary hump. It is fast and there is no getting it off, and now the parents are discussing the subject of what to do with him. There are two propositions: one to send him to Barnum as the champion hump-back and the other is to feed him on cement until he petrifies, and then exhibit him as a fossil baby or a Peruvian idol.

Woman's Wisdom. "She insists that is more important that her family shall be kept in full health, than that she should have all the fashionable dresses and styles of the times. She therefore sees to it, that each member of her family is supplied with enough Hop Bitters at the first appearance of any symptoms of ill health, to prevent a fit of sickness with its attendant expense, care and anxiety. All women should exercise their wisdom in this way."-Ed.

The old patron Dutch Saint, whose name is honored from the extreme Orient to the Ultima Thule, never had a more striking illustration than in the honor of giving name to the "St. Nich-olas" hotel of New York, an establishment associated in the minds of tens of thousands with the most profuse and elegant hospitality. Still in the van, this hotel unites all the best features of the present with the charming traditions of the past. The reduction of prices in connection with the excellence of accommodations makes it the cheapest hotel in the country.

Lively Stock Operations.

The current of recent events ha given great impetus to business in Wall street, and many successful turns are reported where immense profits are made in short periods. The most successful way that we have heard of yet for operating in stocks is by the Combination Method of Messrs. Lawrence & Co., Bankers, New York. By this system thousands of orders in various sums are pooled into one vast capital and operated under the most experienced and skilful management, thus, securing to each shareholder superior advantages and profits, not possible in any other way. Profits are paid at end of 30 days. A gentleman in Boston made $747.30 on an investment of $100. Many others are doing as well or better. Capital in any amount from $10 to $100. 000 can be used with equal proportionate success by this combination or Co-operative Method. $15 would make $75, or 5 per cent. on the stock; $100 would return $900, or 9 per cent. during the month, and so on, according to the market. The new circular contains "two unerring rules for success and full information, so that any one can operate with profit. Stocks and bonds wanted. Deposits received. Government bonds supplied. Sparkling Catawba Springs,

CATAWBA CO. N.C. CATAWBA CO., N. C.

This desirable watering place will be open for select visitors 20th May, 1879. The springs are situated near Hickory Station, on the Western North Carolina Railroad.

The bracing mountain atmosphere, with the health restoring properties of their waters, renders these springs a most desirable resort for invalids and pleasure seekers.

The mineral waters embrace Blue and White Sulphur and Chalybeate. It is the bestand most extensively fitted up watering place in the State, and can accommodate three hundred persons.

A good Band of Music will remain at the Springs during the season, and all the facilities afforded for amusements usually found at first-class watering places will be offered at first-class watering places will be offered to visitors. A good supply of ice constantly On hand.

Conveyances will meet the trains daily at Hickory Station, to convey visitors to the Springs.

BOARD-$2 per day; $30 per month. Rethe advantage of four different mineral waters, warm and cold baths, Turkish, hotair, vapor and medicated baths if desired.
